HOPS 'FOR MARS' PLUNGES IN SEA

Student Flier Rescued Off Cape

STORY ON PAGE 2

On Parade—More than 250,000 Bostonians lined the streets today to witness the climax of the training year for the city's 16,700 school cadets. Here, the boys, chins in and shoulders back, step along Park street

BOY RENTS PLANE, HOPS 'FOR MARS'

He said, when rescued, that he was bound for Mars, but Cheston Eshelman, 22-year-old Baltimore airplane mechanic, was believed to have been on a sneak hop to Europe today when his rented plane dropped him in the sea 175 miles east-southeast of Boston.

Ashelman was rescued by the crew of the Boston fishing trawler Villanova, owned by F. J. O'Hara & Sons, Inc., and to Captain Astmann Bjartmars of that craft he gasped that his destination had been Mars.

Suffering from exhaustion and shock, the ambitious flier—who was on only his second solo flight—was placed in a bunk aboard the trawler and given hot drinks.

IN NICK OF TIME

"My crew got him just in the nick of time," Captain Bjartmars radioed to shore. "His Lascomb plane was sinking as we reached him in a dory."

The uninsured $2600 high-wing all-metal, single-motored monoplane, for which he had paid a rental of $9 last night at Central Airport, Camden, N. J., for a one-hour flight, sank in 240 feet of water immediately after the pilot was taken off.

Eshelman, employed as a mechanic by the Glenn L. Martin Aviation Company of Baltimore, manufacturers of planes, now has hanging over him a threat of prosecution by civil authorities at Camden for misappropriation of the plane and possible action against him as a flier by the Federal Civil Aeronautics Authority.

REAL "MYSTERY FLIGHT"

It was a mystery flight if there ever was one, because when Eshelman took off from Camden airport with the plane, owned by the Walz Flying School, he had only a light load of gasoline, sufficient for about 175 miles, or about 90 minutes of flying.

Although the alarm had gone out for him and the plane before 10 o'clock last night, no report was received that he had landed for refueling but he was still flying—mostly in all directions—when he

SHIP TAKING JEWS BACK TO GERMANY

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—The Hamburg-American liner St. Louis with more than 900 Jewish refugees from Germany aboard was reported by officials of the line today to be en route back to Hamburg.

The vessel was ordered out of Havana harbor after Cuban officials denied the passengers admission. Later she cruised aimlessly in Caribbean waters and it was subsequently reported the refugees would be landed at the Isle of Pines off the Cuban coast.

E. H. Dedrick, passenger traffic manager of the ship line, said, however, the St. Louis had been on its way back to Germany since Sunday.

"We had a radio from Capt. William Schroeder of the St. Louis yesterday, telling us he was on his way back to Hamburg," Dedrick said, "and this morning we have a cable from the main office in Hamburg confirming that statement."

Derrick said the St. Louis, a motor ship, had refueled and reprovisioned at Havana, and there was no danger of a food shortage on the return voyage. Asked what would become of the refugees once the ship reached Hamburg, Derrick said:

"They will be put ashore. They are not our problem."

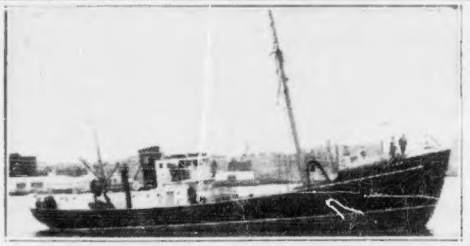
Time's Up, Cuba Clamps on Jewish Lid

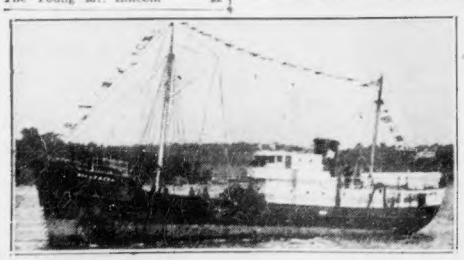
HAVANA, June 6 (AP)—President ederico Laredo Bru today announced that 907 Jewish refugees from Germany aboard the liner St. Louis would be barred from Cuba since a noon deadline had passed without acceptance of the Cuban offer of a temporary haven on the Isle of Pines.

Refugee Ship Still Off Florida, Says Radio

MIAMI, Fla., June 6 (AP)—Commercial radio stations on the southeast Florida coast reported today the German liner St. Louis still was in this vicinity, although the wandering vessel, with 907 Jewish refugees as passengers, declined to disclose its position.

One operator said he estimated from the volume of the signals that the St. Louis was not more than 200 miles away, although he could not guess the direction.





TRAWLERS Storm (top) and Villanova were on Georges Bank, off Cape Cod, when Cheston Eshelman, New Jersey student aviator, dropped into the sea. Storm picked up his note, asking for land directions. Villanova rescued him before plane sank.

17,000 Schoolboy Cadets Thrill Huge Crowds in Parade

For all the gay, bright music, the fluttering of flags in the sharp winds, and thousands of pretty girls lining the streets, there was a tightening of throats today as what may some day be Boston's contribution to the nation's first defense line marched by, 17,000 strong.

High school boys, they are, and from intermediate schools, on annual schoolboy parade. Thirty-one units in a brave show of marching, crisp and on the neat, they swung along to the martial airs of fifty bands, and it was "Eyes right!" at the State House, and again for Mayor Tobin in Tremont street.

After it was over, and the parade broke up, there was great confusion as the khaki-clad youngsters sought out their friends—their girls, in some cases—and streaked for movies and ice-cream parlors.

STEP FAST TOBIN

All except the boy who had lost his dog, a handsome English setter, and the dog that has lost his master. But police soon brought them together.

And there was some scurrying around as the marchers sought hats and caps, blown off by the wind and rescued by friendly policemen.

All in all, it was one of the finest parades of the sort ever to wind itself over and around Beacon Hill.

The parade got off on the dot, starting at Clarendon and Stuart streets, and from there marching to Park square, Boylston street, Tremont street, Park street, Beacon street and back to Copley square.

Mayor and Mrs Tobin were in the stands in Tremont street, with City Council President George Murray and others. Colonel Robert W. Jordan of Dorchester high school was in the van and barked the first sharp "Eyes right!"

CAHILL REVIEWS 'EM

The mayor smiled, bowed and applauded and saluted back—nor was there any way of telling whether or not he counted the 16 youngsters who wore unconventional white shoes under their khaki leggings.

Immediately after the parade Mayor Tobin left for Boston Airport, where an American Airliner had been held 20 minutes to fly him to the Conference of Mayors at Niagara, N. Y.

At the State House Lieutenant-Governor Horace T. Cahill did the honors in the absence of Governor Saltonstall, who is in New York for Massachusetts Day at the World's Fair.

He was flanked by Major Samuel Smith and Lieutenant Otis Whitney of the governor's staff, and beside him was Colonel James Crosby of English High, who slipped out of the stand and into the cortege when his own boys came marching along.

Scattered along the marching line were the army and national guard officers, who met for luncheon later at the Hotel Minerva, Back Bay, to pick the winning outfit for award of a trophy emblematic of its supremacy.

SCHOOLS WIN TROPHIES

Hyde Park High School won the trophy for schools with one regiment, East Boston was second and Roslindale third.

For schools with more than one regiment, Dorchester was first, Public Latin was second, English High School third.

First class of intermediate schools was topped by the Bigelow School, South Boston, with the Thomas N. Hart School of South Boston winner in the second class, and the Thomas A. Edison School of Brighton winner in the third division.

200,000 CHEER THEM

Superintendent of Police Edward F. Fallon estimated the watchers at some 200,000 thousands of whom were girls.

And some were mothers and fathers, watching with smiles on their faces, but with a question in their hearts.

What, if . . .?

Held in 3 Killings After 11 Years

NEW YORK, June 6 (INS)—Hunted for 11 years, Henry Shephard, a Negro masquerading under the name of George Johnson, was seized in Harlem today and admitted, according to police, three slayings.

Two of his victims, authorities revealed, were Virginia state policemen he allegedly shot down on separate occasions in escaping for the murder of a Negro girl.

Duchess Shooting Suspect Held

By JAMES E. ROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 6—Forty-five-year-old Ledwedge Vincent Lawlor, the man who hocked the British Empire by allegedly taking a shot at the Duchess of Kent, was arraigned in Westminster polic court today.

Said to be a recent arrival from Australia, Lawlor was charged with possessing a fire-arm with intent to endanger life and property, and with discharging the weapon at the automobile of King George's sister-in-law.

Meanwhile, Scotland Yard detectives investigated another, but probably unrelated incident, involving the home of the Earl of Harewood and the Princess Royal.

About the time a shot was fired at the Duchess of Kent's limousine last night, servants found a small hole in the dining room window at the Harewood residence.

BLAME IRISH FOE

Police believed the window was broken by a bullet, which they thought may have been fired by a member of the Irish Republican army, the illegal anti-British organization connected with the recent wave of bombings in this country.

Duke of Kent

The Earl and the Princess Royal, who is the only sister of King George VI, had retired when the hole was found in the window.

The attempt on the Duchess of Kent, wife of the King's youngest brother, may have been in protest against the duke's appointment as governor general of Australia, which he was due to take in November.

STRUGGLE WITH SUSPECT

Unaware that a bullet was aimed at her, the Duchess of Kent and the Earl and Countess of Portarlington went to an American movie, "Wuthering Heights," in the Haymarket.

Later, the duchess, who was described as "very upset," said she heard the crack, but thought it was her car backfiring.

Two policemen on guard in Belgrave square, fashionable district where the duke and duchess live, sprang on the alleged gunman and, after a short struggle, took him to a nearby police staion.

BATTLES FOR LIFE in hopes to save others. Charles DeFelice, 12, victim of leukemia, blood disease, shown with his mother at Chelsea Memorial hospital.

'DOOMED' BOY, 12, SURE HE'LL LICK DREAD DISEASE

Although doctors give him only a slender chance for life, Charles DeFelice, 12, of Chelsea, a brave little victim of the dread disease, leukemia, was positive today that he is going to get well.

At Chelsea Memorial Hospital, where an emergency blood transfusion brought a brief rally, the boy worried about everyone but himself.

"I know how sick I am but I also know I will get well," he told his grief-stricken parents.

"Don't worry about me. You both go home and get some sleep. It's you I'm worrying about."

Doctors and nurses proclaim him the bravest child they ever have attended.

An improvement in his condition was reported by his physician, Dr. William Paris, who said another transfusion must be made within a few days if a donor comes forward.

During the year his father, James De Felice, 35, painter, of Chestnut st., Chelsea, has impoverished himself to save the boy, one of four children in the family.

Charles was stricken a year ago and taken to Beth Israel Hospital, where he was given several blood transfusions, the first donated by his brother, James, 11. Later he returned home and seemed improved. But a sudden relapse brought him again to the hospital and more transfusions were given.

Again he returned home, but last Saturday he began once more to fail.

Mother of 3 Asks To Adopt 'Waif'

A warm-hearted Roxbury mother, with three children of her own, sought today to be awarded the legal guardianship of a five-weeks-old baby boy, left in her care by a young woman who later disappeared.

The boy is little Ronald A. Considine, born at City Hospital, May 1.

And the Roxbury mother who wishes to keep him and care for him as if he were her own, is Mrs. Mary Ahearne, of Dudley street.

She told police the baby was placed in her custody by its real mother, Mrs. Marion Considine, who agreed to pay $4 a week for the child's board.

That was three weeks ago, and since that time, according to Mrs. Ahearne, Mrs. Considine came to see her son only once and paid only the first week's board.

When Mrs. Ahearne went to look for Mrs. Considine at a Rose street, Roxbury, address, she was told the young mother had left several days previously. Today Mrs. Ahearne said:

"I've been to the State House, talking to officials in the bureau of child guardianship.

"I took little Ronald in with me and told the whole story. I said I'd come to love the baby and would like to keep him if I had the legal right.

"They told me the child would be technically abandoned after four weeks, so I should keep him for the present and see if his mother came back for him or not.

"I hope now she doesn't come. My own children are growing older. I'd like to have a baby to care for again."

The state fire marshal's office today began an investigation of an explosion which set the Woburn Chemical Co. plant on Green st., Woburn, ablaze, killed one man, and injured two others.

The one and one-half story building housing the plant was destroyed by the fire, for which officials could find no immediate explanation.

Dead was Joseph Kavanjian, 45, of Magazine st., Cambridge. Charles Kalayan, 40, of Laurel st., Arlington, co-owner of the plant, and his brother John, 33, of the same address, were taken to the Choate Memorial Hospital, where they were treated for burns about the head and body. The older brother was sent home, but the younger was kept in the hospital for further treatment.

Fraud in Patriarca Parole Plea Bared

Revealing that two supposed priests, listed as petitioners for the parole of Raymond L. S. Patriarca, Rhode Island's Public Enemy No. 1, are non-existent, it was said at the State House today that Patriarca may yet be returned to complete two three-to-five-year sentences for robbery on the grounds that his parole was obtained by open and obvious fraud.

That there are no two priests who were listed as "Father Fagen of Providence," and "Father Gareni of Quincy," was discovered by investigators for the Special Legislative Committee investigating the so-called "Parole Racket." It was to be voted on by the committee as to whether this information will be passed on to Governor Saltonstall for submission to the Governor's Council.

Should it be, and should the council so vote, Patriarca can be returned from Florida, where he is honeymooning. His parole papers contain an extradition waiver.

This sensational development came in the midst of the committee's investigation, which is expected to lead to public hearings within two weeks.

It was revealed that more than 50 witnesses have already been questioned by its members, and that some have admitted they were approached in an effort to get them to give false testimony.

Both of the non-existent priests were said, in the petition for parole, to be "eager to speak to the Governor on Patriarca's behalf.

The investigators were unable to find any "Father Fagen" in Providence, and were told at Diocesan headquarters there is no such priest in the vicinity. Tracing "Father Gareni," they found that a Father Philip A. Guarino had once been attached to St. John's Church, Quincy, but had been transferred to Waverly.

Located there, he denied that he had signed the petition, or knew Patriarca.

'Dad' Seeks Custody Of $3000 Lynn Baby

SALEM, June 6—Around a year-old baby girl with an inheritance of $3000 an adoption battle was fought today in probate court, with the Catholic Charitable Bureau opposing an attempt for custody by a WPA worker claiming to be the child's father.

The adoption petition, brought by George Dukas of Liberty street, Lynn, was taken under advisement by Judge John A. Costello.

Dukas testified the girl, Carol Ann Dempsey, was born to Mrs. Mary Dempsey of Lynn in March, 1938. The mother had been estranged from her husband, and shortly after birth of the baby she died.

Miss Frances Giley, secretary of the Catholic Charitable Bureau in Lynn, testified she was made guardian of the child last November and there was no objection then by Dukas.

Not long after this the balance of a $3000 inheritance for the child was received from settlement of the mother's estate.

Out of this money the $5-a-week board for Carol Ann, at the home of a Saugus woman, is being paid, and the baby is being clothed.

Dukas testified he was married May 23, 1938, and he and his wife both want to adopt the baby.

A sister of the dead woman, Mrs. Lena Doucette, who is bringing up the other three Dempsey children, said Mrs. Dempsey, on her deathbed at Lynn hospital, expressed a wish that "George will take good care of the baby."

Objecting to the adoption petition on the ground that Dukas is an unfit person, the Catholic bureau produced statistics purporting to show his court record.

Long Must Die For Sex Slaying

CONCORD, N. H., June 6—New Hampshire Supreme Court today denied the new trial motion of counsel for Howard Long, convicted of a sex slaying, shortly after his release in Massachusetts.

A report of the court's decision was sent immediately to the superior court where the date of execution of Long, for the slaying of 10-year-old Mark Neville, Jr., of Laconia, may be set at once.

M'GLUE LOSES ON DELAY

Denying a plea for further delay after long arguments, U. S. Judge Hugh D. McLellan today ordered Charles H. McGlue, ex-chairman of the Democratic state committee and ex-chairman of the ballot law committee, to trial at once on charges of failing to file an income tax return for the year 1935.

McGlue, appearing as his own counsel, sought postponement until June, 1940, on the ground that newspaper articles and gossip had made it impossible for him to obtain a fair trial at this time.

After listening carefully, Judge McLellan ruled:

"I can't bring myself to believe that any jury likely to be drawn here would be unable to differentiate between newspaper articles and the simple charge that the defendant failed to file an income tax return in a year when his income exceeded $5000."

He then denied the motion, and directed that the trial proceed.

The government charges specifically that in 1935 McGlue had an income of $34,000, and filed no return.

The government is prosecuting through U. S. Attorney Edmund J. Brandon, his assistants Henry M. Leen and C. Keefe Hurley, and Special Assistant U. S. Attorney General Leo M. Looney, here from Washington.

Nine in Revere Vice Case Ask Acquittal

Nine of 14 defendants on trial for alleged conspiracy to operate a gambling racket in Revere filed motions for directed verdicts of not guilty in Suffolk Superior Court today.

The state prosecutor, Asst. Atty.-Gen. John S. Derham, had announced just previously that the government's evidence was all in.

Judge Allan G. Buttrick said he would hear arguments on the defense motions after a recess.

The five defendants who did not ask a directed verdict included former Mayor James M. O'Brien of Revere, Joseph Tattleman, Charles J. Duval, Charles Shuman and Jacob Chanski.

The other nine included Police Lieutenant Henry Tracy, Special Officer William C. Gibson, Louis Alpert, Max Pollack, John P. Walsh, Bernard Sochat, Robert McKay, Morris Rosen and Jacob Stutman.

All except Rosen and Stutman announced through counsel that they would rest their cases, presenting no defense.

One of the last witnesses for the state was John Malcolm McCauley, former welfare investigator for Revere, who declared he was constantly haunted by the dread of being "bombed."

"What with people putting me on the spot, and people writing letters, I'm afraid of getting killed any minute. I might be bombed tonight. I don't know when it will strike," McCauley said.

The witness, former investigator for the welfare department, and the law department of Revere, testified he had repeatedly told Mayor O'Brien that the Derby Club was "going full blast" as a gambling den.

He told the vice squad of Lieut. Henry Tracey and Patrolman William Gibson, just as frequently, he said, of gambling conditions in the city.

All shrugged at his complaints, but the mayor added, "You're daffy as ever," in dismissing the complaints, McCauley said.

Move for 1940 Lottery Vote

A movement to place the question of a legalized state lottery on the ballot at the 1940 state election for an "expression of public opinion" was disclosed today at a hearing before the House ways and means committee at the State House.

Charles C. O'Donnell of Lynn, president of the Massachusetts Society for Old Age Pensions, said his organization was campaigning for signatures for a referendum.

HITLER HURLS NEW WARNING

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, June 6—Another stern warning to "international warmongers engaged in encirclement of Germany to promote a new world war" was delivered by Adolf Hitler today in addressing 12,000 German veterans of the war in Spain.

In a militant speech to troops of the Condor Legion gathered in the Lustgarten, Hitler charged the Spanish conflict resulted from an international plot designed to precipitate a new world war.

Dedicating a tablet inscribed with the names of the German dead in Spain, Hitler paid tribute to the "bravery, loyalty and anonymity" of the Condor Legion.

"Your spirit," he said, "will increase the self-confidence of the German nation. It will leave no doubt in the minds of international warmongers that, should they ever put their aggressive schemes into effect, any attack will be repulsed and repelled in such a manner that even the most bloodthirsty of warmongers do not dream of today."

In his speech the fuehrer disclosed he had decided to support Generalissimo Francisco Franco in July, 1936, a few days after the conflict broke out.

"I made this decision," he said, "when it became evident that in the person of Gen. Franco a man had arisen capable of successfully overcoming an international plot which was ultimately intended to spread from Spain into a world conflagration."

The fuehrer did not mention Soviet Russia or any other individual power as responsible fo the alleged was plot. Hitler declared return of the volunteers to Berlin refuted once and for all foreign accusations that Germany and Italy planned to seize Spanish Morocco and control Spain.

Eighty mothers and other relatives of the 330 Legionnaires who fell in Spain were Hitler's honor guests.

Hitler Protests 'Nazi Spy' Film

WASHINGTON, June 6 (INS)—The German government has lodged bitter diplomatic representations with the State Department concerning the Warner Brothers' film, "The Confessions of a Nazi Spy," it was learned today.

A note signed by the German charge d'affaires, Hans Thomsen, and delivered by messenger to Secretary Hull, denounced the picture as an example of pernicious propaganda which has been "poisoning" German-American relations.

The department said the contents of the note were brought to the attention of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America (Hays organization) and that Dr. Thomsen had been so advised.

U. S. HOLDS IRISH FOE OF KING

DETROIT, June 6 (INS) — Sean Russell, officer in the outlawed Irish Republican army and outspoken opponent of English administration of Irish affairs, today was held by immigration authorities while a scant mile across the Detroit river the city of Windsor made ready to welcome England's King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Sean Russell

Russell and a companion, Russell Mann, were seized by immigration authorities in Chicago yesterday, said John L. Zubrick, head of the immigration department's Detroit office. Brought to Detroit last night on a deportation train, they were met at the Michigan Central station by officers of the service and lodged in the department's detention quarters overnight.

Zubrick scotched rumors Russell's arrest was ordered by state department officials to prevent possible Irish Republican army instigated outbreaks during the royal visit to this country.

Arrest Follows 'Request' From London

WASHINGTON, June 6 (INS)—Detention of Sean Russell, officer in the outlawed Irish Republican Army, by U. S. immigration authorities in Detroit, was connected with the forthcoming visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, to the United States, official quarters admitted today.

Officially Russell was arrested by immigration authorities for investigation of his entry into the United States.

But the reason that lay behind the immigration authorities' action at this time, it was said, was that the British government had requested the United States to ascertain Russell's whereabouts and "keep him under surveillance" until after the King and Queen's visit is ended.

Capital Shines Up For Royal Guests

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The steel gray lamp posts along historic Pennsylvania avenue were sprouting red, white and blue British and American flags today, first visible evidence of the two-day pageant of good will honoring the King and Queen of England.

From Union Station, where the royal couple will arrive Thursday morning, to the White House, where they will stay overnight, banners and bunting were being hung.

Decorations will be completed tomorrow when shields bearing the United States coat of arms and others inscribed "GRE"—George Rex Elizabeth—are put in place beneath the flags.

TO BE MET AT NIAGARA

Secretary of State Hull and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, will leave tonight to greet the royal visitors at Niagara Falls when they cross into this country from Canada tomorrow night.

Window space on the upper floors of store buildings is going at a premium. Prices per window range up to $30. Capital police, co-operating closely with the secret service, have been asked to keep tab on the "box seat" spectators.

But the 500,000 persons jamming the sidewalks and craning out of windows will see a sight never before witnessed during the 163 years of American independence—the spectacle of an American President and a ruler of the British Empire riding together in the Capital.

Britons have said frankly they hoped this spectacle would symbolize the harmony that exists between the two English speaking nations and would serve to strengthen that friendly relationship.

The King and Queen have a schedule of constant activity while in the capital. They will make five trips between the White House and the British embassy and will go on a sightseeing tour, in addition to yachting down the Potomac to Mount Vernon and motoring 17 miles back to Arlington Cemetery.

Some extraordinary protective measures have been planned. The visit is expected to keep on duty 1043 capital policemen, augmented by 425 firemen.

When they leave the station—to the booming of a 21-gun salute and the strains of the British and American national anthems—they will drive between closely formed ranks of soldiers, sailors and marines up Delaware avenue to the capitol, around the capitol plaza, down Pennsylvania avenue to the White House grounds.

Planes Mustn't Fly Over King

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The civil aeronautics authority today forbade low-flying aircraft for 11 hours Friday along the Potomac river route British royalty will travel to and from Mount Vernon.

From 10 a. m. until 9 p. m. (daylight time) no civil planes except commercial craft on a scheduled flight may fly lower than 1500 feet within the area.

Queen 'Isn't Stylish' In Her Mine Costume

SUDBURY, Ont, June 6 (INS)—"This is not a bit stylish," the Queen laughed, and she didn't exactly look like a fashion picture in silk raincoat, gloves and rubbers, but that was the costume prescribed for visiting the underground workings of the famous Frood nickel mile here, largest in the world.

Rolling on again today toward the United States border, King George and his consort could write the Frood trip in their dairies as the most unusual of any experience they have had during their Canadian tour.

From Sudbury the royal train moved on to South Parry, where it remained for the night.

Today brief stops are scheduled at Guelph, Kitchener, Stratford and Windsor, all in the afternoon.

PENDERGAST IMPROVES

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 6 (AP)—Tom Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic boss serving a 15-month term for income tax frauds, has rallied from a heart attack suffered in federal prison here. His condition is described today as "no longer critical."

ICKES IN PLEA FOR 3D TERM

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 6 — The "Palace Guard" drive to renominate President Roosevelt in 1940 burst into the open today with Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes declaring for a third term.

Ickes voiced his 1940 preference in an article in the magazine Look. He asserted Mr. Roosevelt is the only man in the world qualified for a third term and demanded the electorate be given a chance to vote on the so-called traditional ban against three terms.

As Ickes spoke publicly, Postmaster-General James A. Farley returned to the capital to tell friends he is unable to learn whether the President desires a third term. Farley told a confident:

"The President has never told me what he proposes to do about 1940. I'm completely in the dark and I don't intend to ask him. If he's going to talk to me about it, he must open the subject."

DENIES POLITICAL TALK

Farley made this statement after his recent conference with the President at Hyde Park. Farley was believed to have told the President at this conference that he found party leaders willing to give him a third term nomination.

Farley has told friends, too, he believes a Democrat can be elected President in 1940.

"STOP GARNER" DRIVE

The Ickes statement for a third term comes as no surprise. A month ago—on May 4—International News Service reported the "Palace Guard" had decided on a "draft Roosevelt" campaign as a last resort to "stop Garner"—to stop Vice-President John Nance Garner from running away with the 1940 nomination.

The Ickes statement said:

"I want President Roosevelt to run for a third term . . . to deny the people through political humbug, the opportunity to decide for themselves whether they want the President for a third term is to deny democracy itself."

Sen. Lodge Wins Irish Oath Fight

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., today won his battle to remove the "Irish oath" from United States naturalization laws.

The junior Massachusetts senator reported from Washington that the United States committee on naturalization and immigration had reported favorably on a bill he introduced January 10 seeking removal of the requirement that Irish citizens forswear allegiance to Britain on becoming citizens of the United States.

Under new provisions, applicants simply will renounce allegiance to the present Irish government. At present, applicants were forced to forswear allegiance to "King George," a condition which many an Irish immigrant had refused to do. Those refusing stated they never had any allegiance to the British monarch.

Vets Will Serve In June 17 Parade

Col. William J. Blake, head of the Veterans' Bureau in Boston, and John J. Walsh, national executive member of the Disabled Veterans of the World War, have accepted invitations to serve on the staff in the Charlestown parade June 17, Chief Marshal Daniel J. Coughlin announced today.

Patrick E. Fleming, commander of Charlestown Post 544, V. F. W., will command the second division of the parade; Edward Flynn, Bunker Hill Post 26, A. L., the third division; Commander J. Ross Maynard, U. S. W. V., the fourth, and John Lowney, A. L., the fifth division.

OLYPHANT, Penn., June 6 (AP)—An electrical storm fouled the town's telephone system, causing phones to ring simultaneously in 2500 homes.

'FIXERS' EAGER TO PAY TAX

A score of well know Massachusetts men—leaders whose influence has blocked income tax invasion prosecution for five years—today were reported as eager to settle up with Uncle Sam.

The reported rush to make amends came with the avowal of Attorney General Frank Murphy that a national cleanup must be made, irrespective of whose reputation is hurt.

Murphy and J. Edgar Hoover, head G-Man, are due to arrive here tomorrow to personally see that the long-deferred Boston prosecution strikes no further snags.

Files in Washington have been ransacked, and cases gathering dust in some instances for years without action have been revived and prepared for presentation to grand juries, it was learned.

For several months past, agents of the intelligence division of the internal revenue department have been quietly gathering evidence against a dozen Bay State persons, including several attorneys.

When Hoover and the attorney general arrive at the federal building, it is understood they will go over this evidence with local officials. The attorney general is expected to authorize grand jury proceedings, unless the accused pay what the government claims is owed.

A number of the individuals under investigation are said to have believed that as a result of influence in Washington they had nothing to fear from charges of failure to make proper tax returns.

DORMANT FOR YEARS

Since Atty. Gen. Murphy took office however, there has been evidence of the start of a national clean-up, and the internal revenue bureau is examining its files for evidence of tax evasions that have lain dormant for several years.

Atty. Gen. Murphy and Hoover were reported to have discussed the Los Angeles case during their recent West Coast inspection trip. It was said that conviction of Tom Pendergast, Kansas City politics leader, and indictment of a number of individuals in Atlantic City on tax evasion charges had resulted in a substantial amount of back taxes being received from persons in both cities.

Call Barefoot Pupils to Class

BRISTOL, R. I., June 6—Judge William P. O'Donnell refused to accept the excuse of Peter Parandiso today, that he did not send his children to school because they have no shoes.

"Some of the greatest men in our history went barefooted to school," Judge O'Donnell told Parandiso, "and lack of shoes is no excuse for you not sending your children. The law in this country is that children must attend school whether their parents like it or not."

He then released Parandiso on his personal recognizance until a further hearing on June 19, instructing him that his children must go to school in the meantime.

3 Hub Doctors Find Epilepsy Hereditary

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 6—Three Boston physicians told the American Neurological Association today electrical impulses given off by the brains of epilepsy sufferers proved the ailment was hereditary.

The cortex of every human brain gives off an electrical rhythm or "beat" all its own. Twins who look much alike emanate waves much alike.

That's old stuff to the laboratory men, but Dr. W. G. Lennox and Drs. E. L. and F. A. Gibbs made use of another known fact: that the brains of epileptics give off a queer wave with an uneven beat, or "cerebral dysrythmia."

Discovery of a method for making "mental blueprints" of persons, as an aid for psychiatric diagnosis and analysis of normal personalities, was announced by Professor Frederick Wertham, director of the mental hygiene clinic at Bellevue Hospital, New York.

The method is this: A person is asked to make any kind of designs he wants to make by putting together individual colored wooden pieces. These pieces are shaped as squares, triangles, rhomboids, and are of various sizes. They have various colors—green, blue, black, white, red, yellow and so forth.

The person makes his mosaic designs upon a flat rectangular tray, with upraised edges to look like walls.

The normal person uses many pieces, and tends to cover the entire tray with his pictorial patterns. He also, although not invariably, makes representations of some concrete objects, such as human beings, landscapes and what not. Patterns are well organized.

A most important trait of normality is, that some red color is always used.

The mentally diseased persons, various kinds of insanes, present a totally different general character, and by their peculiarities the kind of mental disease may be diagnosed.

Patients of dementia praecox make very simple designs, repeat the same patterns, usually abstract, representing nothing concrete. The whole picture is monotonous and primitive.

Shots in Chase Halt 3 Youths

After a hair-raising 70-mile-an-hour chase from Newtonville to Waltham, during which several shots were fired, police in a Newton prowl car today arrested three youths and charged them with possession of stolen property.

Police said they found 42 package of cigarettes, a dozen boxes of cigars, and other articles in the car. The three prisoners were turned over to Waltham police, who checked the alleged contraband against reports of two recent candy store breaks.

Those arrested were booked as Francis R. MacDonald, 19, of Arlington road, Newton; Francis F. Brooks, 19, of College Farm road, Waltham, and Robert B. Henderson, 23, of Princeton avenue, Waltham. MacDonald was charged with failure to stop for an officer, in addition to the stolen property charge.

Names Leahy For Puerto Rico

WASHINGTON, June 6 (INS)—Appointment of Admiral William D. Leahy, retiring chief of naval operations, to be governor of Puerto Rico was announced by the White House today upon receipt of the resignation of Gen. Blanton Winship from the island post.

The girl was taken to Malden Hospital, and after being stitched up was sent home.

BUSINESS TROOPS HIT BY LEWIS

WASHINGTON, June 6 (INS)—Anti-union corporations have built up private armies that parallel storm troop corps of Fascist nations, John L. Lewis, head of the CIO, charged today.

He also alleged many employers have established "military dictatorship" over whole communities.

Lewis asked Congress to prohibit award of any government contract, loan or subsidy to any business which violated the Wagner labor act.

Lewis testified before the Senate labor committee in support of the La Follette bill, which provides criminal penalties for oppressive labor acts such as use of spies, strikebreakers or use of munitions such as tear gas, in labor disputes.

The second portion of the measure would deny government contracts, loans and subsidies to corporations or employers that violated it.

Security 1st Aim Tech Grads Advised

Stressing the human and social factors in industry Sir Harold Hartley, vice president of the London Midland and Scottish Railway, told 1,024 graduates of Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the school's commencement exercises in Symphony Hall today that "the search for security is gradually taking the place of opportunity."

"Times," declared Sir Harold, "have changed since the days of the great expansion in the 19th century, when demand was always outstripping production and there was ample scope for the small productive units in private ownership in which self-interest was the main driving force.

"There are still great prizes to be won, particularly in this country, but for the vast majority of the workers of today there can only be a very limited prospect of material advancement apart from improvements in the standard of living and the social fabrics. With these and with security they are the gainers."

'THE YOUNG MR. LINCOLN'

Brothers Write Mother From Shadow of Gallows

LINCOLN was amused by the expression which came to Hannah's face when Abagail Clay mentioned Adam's ability as a hunter. Plainly she was of the opinion Matt was just as good at handling a rifle. Then he continued to read the boys' letter, written from the jail back in Springfield.

"A preacher comes in regular and reads us the Bible. I'm fixing to learn me a whole Psalm — if I don't get hung first. Well, ma," Adam concluded, "in far from Psalm-like doggerel, "my pen is bad, my ink is pale, my love for you will never fail."

And then Mr. Bad Pen said he was ready to go to sleep and said to Abagail, "Ma, I'm going to say my prayers."

Hannah smiled. He was telling the same stories. I wonder he could remember just what he'd said in his letter. I want to make sure we're telling the truth to your pa.

Harrow was dressed. We are very pretty, now I know it. Abagail, I was afraid I'd make a mistake. I'm not very much at it.

Abagail: Ah said. Why, she thought, that's just what I am. Hannah was saying, "I'm afraid I'm not very much at it." Abagail was saying, "I'm afraid I'm not very much at it." Why, they were alike! Why hadn't she seen it before? Hannah was a lonely woman, too, and she needed love. Abagail felt sorry for her. She wanted to help her.

"I'm afraid I'm not very much at it," Abagail confessed and Lincoln looked down at the child when she had buried her hands. He smiled and tucked her under the chin awkwardly. The baby cooed.

A MOTHER'S STORY

"Now then," he said, "I'm going to read you a letter from your brothers. It's addressed to you, but it's for all of you."

Abagail moved her baby a little closer to her body and listened closely.

"Dear Mother: Adam has just returned from a hunting trip and has brought back a deer. Pa is very proud of him. He is a good shot. I am not. I'm afraid I'll never be a hunter. Pa says I'm not trying hard enough. I'm trying as hard as I can

Austen Lake:

Randy's Oil Wells Brings Bees Riches

BEING BOGGED DOWN IN THE SLOUGH of the National League, the Boston Bees have abandoned all hope of sharing any World Series riches. Yet some of them are pop-eyed with the prospect of more and sudden wealth than baseball can offer. A syndicate of Bee athletes, including Johnny Cooney, Fred Frankhouse, Al Lopez and Casey Stengel invested in a Nebraska wildcat well some years ago at the behest of Randy Moore, ex-outfielder who was affectionately known as "Old Snowshoes" before being traded to Brooklyn and hence to the hinterlands.

AUSTEN LAKE

The story is one of those Cinderella affairs in which Randy and his daddy-in-law, a gent named W. G. Farrier, owned a likely looking oil tract 12 miles outside his Omaha home on a line and a little distance from Farrier's Magnolia gusher which squirts 2400 barrels between dawn and dark. The experts had assured Randy that the same subterranean oil ocean oozed under his property.

Randy was in what we press people like to call a "quandary." He lacked funds to drill. So he solicited some of his old Boston teammates, like Bill McKechnie, Walter Berger, Bill Urbanski, Duffy Lewis, John Quinn, Al Lopez and Vice-President Oscar Horton. He also whispered the opportunity to some of his Brooklyn chums, including Frankhouse, Ed Brandt, Cooney, Van Mungo, Watson Clark and Stengel.

Fishermen Have Gala Day Off Plum Island

Rain Storm Fails to Dampen Ardor of Fair Sex Anglers

By DARK MONTREAL

Remember what I said about the pollock in Ipswich Bay. Even Boston sportsmen proved it over the weekend when they jostled Captain Jason Hines' [illegible] out of Ipswich with more wallopers than it could comfortably carry.

Gordon Lee, Vernon Childs and Paul Bruce made up the party, three of them fishing with five and six ounce fly rods using feather jigs at a slow [illegible] The [illegible] was on [illegible] last week. The [illegible] was [illegible] and averaged [illegible] pounds. [illegible] a big salmon on the fly, a big pollock on light tackle provided the finest kind of action.

Sunday's heavy storm didn't interfere much with the real fishermen and for a time Long Pond looked like Ladies Day. There was a plentiful sprinkling of the fair sex after striped bass on the Weweantic river. The run has lagged a little in the North river but there are some big pollock off the river mouth. Stripers better than 10 pounds are now being taken in the Buttermilk Bay tide rip at Buzzards Bay.

CAST AND BACKLASH
DARK MONTREAL:

Hey, listen—wait a minute! I go for your stuff (with my tongue in my cheek) but when you start crowing like a rooster over a little stinker of a 3½ pound salmon and add insult to injury by saying you took it "out from under the noses" of John Rigby and Jack Anderton—then, mister, I gotta have something to say.

First off, what of it? That minnie, I mean. That's a bait fish where I came from. We hook those three and four pounders back of the dorsal and fish for big ones with them. Then (Ed. Note: deletion here) who are you that you have the right to crow about one fish that the Long Pond oldtimers didn't get? Rigby and Anderson, Tisdale, Doc Tessier, Jeff Perrier and that crowd have taken more salmon out of Long than you'll ever take in total anywhere. Only they don't write fishing columns and can't crow about catching little stinkers of salmon. The real fishermen keep quiet about the real fish so you guys dont hear about them. I know a pond on the Cape where there's landlocked salmon, both Schago and Chinook, up to 20 pounds—and I've taken a 14 pounder there this year—but only three others know there's salmon in this water and you're not going to hear about it.

Some things you write make me think you're an old timer yourself and know something about what you're writing but other stuff in your column leads me to believe you're a fresh, young kid, playing pretend, who needs to be put in his place. I hope this does it. Old Timer, Middleboro

P. S.—What were you using on Long Pond? I don't have no luck there. O. T.

Dear Old Timer:

Sorry you took offense. Rigby, Anderton and the other boys didn't. Because they read what you apparently missed—the line in which I wrote: "They've wiped my eye often enough." They have, and I just felt so good about that fish I couldn't keep quiet. Three and a half pounders may be bait fish for you (though I doubt it) but they're pretty fair fish for me salmon, I mean.

Matter-of fact, I rise to cast doubt not only on your claim that there are 20 pound salmon in any Cape Cod pond but on your own boast about a 14 pounder. I'll go further, I'll say you're telling a fib about the 14 pounder. And if I'm wrong—and you can prove it with the documentary evidence, either signed affidavits or the fish—I'll hand in my license for fishing for one year. That's an honest offer.

DARK MONTREAL

P. S. I was using a 20-foot leader, four-pound test, a No. 8 hook, and fishing shrimp, about 15 feet deep over 75 feet of water and I repeated Sunday. This is a special leader and I am sending you one in the hope you will crawl out of your grouch before it bites you. D. M

Hits Leaving Cronin Off All-Stars

Miller's Selection Proves Popular

JOE CASHMAN'S selection of Frank Crosetti of the Yankees to play shortstop on the American League's All-Star team in their game against the National League All-Stars at the Yankee Stadium, New York, on July 11 has drawn the fire of many Boston fans.

James Doyle of Bowdoin street, Dorchester, insists that Joe Cronin of the Red Sox is a much better shortstop than Crosetti. Doyle does not believe Cronin should be listed as a ultility player, and Crosetti used on the first team.

Cashman's naming of Eddie Miller of the Bees to play shortstop for the National League All-Star team proved very popular. Miller has become a tremendous favorite in Boston. This brilliant infielder has the sparkle and amazing ability of "Rabbit" Maranville and has been a powerful factor in the playing of the Bees.

It was unfortunate for the Bees and also for Miller that Tony Cuccinello was put out of the game with an injured knee as a result of a smash-up with Dick Bartell of the Cubs.

Miller and Cuccinello made one of the best double play combinations in baseball. Tony was also of great value in coaching the youthful Miller in the fine points of the game.

At the bottom of this column is published a coupon for your use in naming the All-Star teams. Fill out the coupon and mail it to "Mr. Boston," Boston Evening American, Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass.

"Mr. Boston" will publish many of the selections made by the fans, and later mail all of the choices to National League and American League officials so that they may use them in helping to make their decisions on the players who will participate in the All-Star game.

Sox and Yanks

It is ridiculous to say the Yanks will beat the Red Sox by 50 games this year. Even the Athletics were not 50 games behind the Yanks at the close of the 1938 season. I do not believe John Maher or anybody else will say that the Sox are not a better ball club than the Athletics of a year ago.

Cronin and Doerr are making life miserable for enemy batters with all their double killings, while Vosmik is playing a great game in the field.

Bradley Horses

Col. E. R. Bradley will have 22 thoroughbreds at Suffolk Downs by the latter part of the week. I believe the type of horses at the East Boston track will continue to improve, though I do think our entries have been a shade better than those at Belmont Park.

CHARLEY McLENNAN.

Sox Relief Hurlers

Manager Joe Cronin's Red Sox have awakened to the fact the relief hurlers can produce if they get a chance to start a ball game. I think Heving has proved his right to be a starting pitcher. Wilson, who has only a prayer on the ball, should be given bull pen duty. If Galehouse fails during June, Dickman should take his place.

STEPHEN SISTIS,
No. 556 Tremont street, Boston.

Boost for Hassett

Buddy Hassett continues to bat for well over .300 and looks like one of the real bright spots with the Bees. I also consider Eddie Miller a great ball player.

Sox Need "Subs"

I believe the Red Sox need better substitutes. I do not consider Finney, first baseman, and Nonenkamp, outfielder, heavy material. No ball club is any stronger than its secondary defense.

Bob Quinn Raps N. L. Baseball As Death Peril

wouldn't fall off a bit if the agate were slowed up. In fact, it wouldn't surprise me if the crowds increased.

"Fans get a kick out of watching real sluggers like Joe Di Maggio, Jimmy Foxx, Ted Williams, Ernie Lombardi, Joe Medwick et al hit the ball out of the park, but you're taking all the science out of the game and insulting the intelligence of the customers when you make it possible for .200 hitting weaklings to hit circuit drives.

"The good hitters will clear the fences if you use a rag ball. The palookas will be chopped down to their normal size at the platter and smart, exciting baseball will result if the ball is slowed down slightly at the center."

Whether it was because of the dynamite in the ball, or the strong south wind, very rare in Allston, or a combination of the two, the Quinn Bees went on their wildest home-run spree of the campaign in the Monday opener of the series with the second-place Cards from St. Louie, 10 to 4.

Possibly having been inspired by Al Lopez, who parked a drive into the seats to bring the Swarm its first win over the Reds on Saturday last, Max West and Eddie Miller swung their four-base bludgeons to lead their mates to win No. 1 over the Redbirds after three defeats at the hands of the Mound City entry.

Mr. West hit two balls into the rightfield jury box, the first drive smashed in there by anybody this season.

Maxie's first slap, off Bob Bowman with two mates on in the fifth carried some 450 feet on the fly.

His second, which ignited a four-run rally against Paul Dean in the eighth, travelled 410 feet on the line.

HOME RUN STREET QUIET IN CAPITAL

Babe, Lou, Goose Gone, Windows Safe Again

Washington Folks Enjoy Peaceful Summer

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The residents of what has come to be known as Home Run street—a little thoroughfare opposite the right field fence at Griffith Stadium—have settled down to their first summer's rest in years.

The Catfish sprawled on the porch . . . Mama Lou fanned herself in the parlor and beamed in her safe domesticity . . . Mr. Joe, the paying guest, smoked his cigar and rocked in comfort.

"Yeah," said Mr. Joe, "we got comfort now. No more home runs come busting over that fence and busting Mama Lou's windows."

"All over," drawled the Catfish; "there ain't no window-busters left in this here league. All over."

Babe Ruth

Goose Goslin

"They've all gone now," agreed Mama Lou, "and I'm glad."

"Who's gone?"

"Them window-busters," said Mr Joe. "Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and the Goose."

For years that trio of left-handed hitters pestered the summer sleep of the residents of Home Run street. It was almost a daily occurrence for one of them to hammer the baseball over the short fence.

Mama Lou's house in is range. In fact, a ball can hardly come over the fence without banging on to the front porch or crashing through a window.

"Times was bad once," Mamma Lou recalled. "Them men would bust 'em over here every afternoon. When them Yankees came to town I wanted to go."

The only solace they got out of it all was guessing and betting on who hit the homer.

Goose Goslin was about the only Washington player who ever consistently drilled them over the fence, so it wasn't so hard when the Yanks weren't playing.

There are still some great home run hitters in the American League—Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Joe DiMaggio and Rudy York.

"They don't worry us," said the Catfish, "them fellows hit 'em right handed. They hit to the left-field bleachers. Home folks are safe that way. It's too far."

Mr. Joe's cigar had gone out . . . Mamma Lou was just about asleep . . . The Catfish began to yawn.

Over inside the stadium somebody had hit a single. But things were quiet in Home Run street. The Babe, Old Lou and the Goose had gone.

Norris Has Final Say on Eddie Shore {Eddie Miller Most Improved B's Player

By BILL GRIMES

Maxie West came into his own yesterday at National League Field, when he drove two balls into the "Jury Box" . . . His first circuit drive was so well stroked that it landed well up in the stand but his second just cleared the screen . . .

Maxie has made 21 hits this season and he has driven in 25 runs . . . With such a record, West is entitled to be in the regular lineup, despite the fact that he still has a few weaknesses . . . If he continues to listen to advice, Eddie Miller cannot miss being a .300 hitter next season . . . His work at the plate is improving daily and in the event that he develops into a consistent hitter, Miller will be the outstanding short stop of the current era . . .

Eddie Miller

Tommy Bridges accomplished one of his greatest diamond feats when he shut out the Yankees by holding them to four singles . . . Vito Tamulis, the former English high school southpaw, held the Pirates to seven one-base knocks yesterday and the Dodgers came up with an easy win . . .

Fritz Ostermueller and Monte Weaver let Joe Cronin down yesterday by getting nicked for seven runs in two innings . . . The Red Sox played out the string but they were two tallies shy when they ran out of innings . . .

JIM NORRIS BOSS

All the talk both pro and con as to whether or not Eddie Shore will play for the Springfield Indians next season is just so much hooey.

If James Norris, Sr., wants Eddie as a playing manager in Springfield, Mr. Shore will be the playing manager . . . Mr. Norris is the czar of the National Hockey League and make no mistake about that assertion . . . Casey Stengel, Frankie Frisch, George Kelly, Mike Kelley and Buddy Hassett will be the guests of the Gridiron Club tonight at the Hotel Lenox . . .

Mrs. Harriet E. Ferris, who was operated on for appendicitis a fortnight ago, was in the gallery during the W. G. A. qualifying round at Weston . . .

Charlie Warmuth, who wintered at West Palm Beach, Fla., with Harry Richmond, the former New England Seniors' golf champion, is headed for the McKenzie Camps at West Outlet, Me. . . . Upon his return, Charlie will embark on a world's cruise.

Winding up with minus 38, Horton Smith didn't exactly cover himself with glory during the second annual Goodall Round-Robin Invitation at Fresh Meadows . . . Bill Flemming and Jim Keefe were shut out for the first time this season in a Metropolitan Four Ball League match at Bear Hill on Sunday . . .

Woodrow Wilson

And, Sunday wasn't a banner day for Tommy and Teddy Quinn, Riverside's No. 1 combination . . . The Quinns were blanked by Friel and Bacon of Woburn . . .

WILSON LEADS CLASS

Dave Moeser, Lou Ehrlich, P. J. Shaughness and G. K. Creighton will represent Conrad's in the Boston Retail Trade Board sweepstakes Thursday at Charles River . . . Woodrow Wilson, Army's brilliant back, graduated from "The Point" an honor man . . . The late Tom Dean, when he was professional at Myopia, predicted that Mrs. John S. Amory would develop into one of the best golfers in the W. G. A.

Mrs. Amory, apparently, is going to live up to Tom's predictions . . . She put together a pair of 42s yesterday and finished only three strokes behind Mrs. H. F. Prunaret, Jr., who was the medalist of the W. G. A. qualifying round.

Mrs. Thomas J. Carty, George Wright Golf Club, has played in two state championships . . . A year ago at Belmont, she was in the play off and again yesterday . . . Once sh is able to shake ff championship jitters, Mrs. Carty will become one of the outstanding women golfers in the state.

Germany's Court Team Beats England

DAVE WILSON PICKS FIVE WINNERS

Dave Wilson, "King of Handicappers," added further proof to his unquestionable right as the outstanding authority on picking winners, when he came up with five winners, including the daily double at Suffolk Downs, yesterday.

Shin Plaster, $12.80 in the first race, and Bright Spot, $5.60 in the second, combined for a $29.60 daily double. Dave had these on top. In the third Wilson's top horse, Panjab, paid off the nice price of $8.60 to win.

DAVE WILSON

A straight $2 bet on Wilson's choices including the daily double, netted a PROFIT of $50.40!

Dave Wilson's graded handicaps are an EXCLUSIVE feature of the BOSTON AMERICAN and SUNDAY ADVERTISER.

WIN WITH WILSON!

Black Brummel, Dave's code bet at Detroit, won and paid $3.80. This boosted his profit on code bets to $36.00.

Myopia Seeks Polo Contest With Danvers

With Harvard playing Princeton on Saturday in the intercollegiate championship tournament and Dedham Country and Polo Club traveling to Pittsfield for its first out-of-town game of the season, on Sunday, the spotlight locally will be on the Myopia Hunt Club poloists.

Myopia, 8-6 victor in its seasonal debut against the Crimson last weekend, shapes up as the strongest team in New England at the moment, although the series with Dedham June 17 and 24 promises to be a red-hot battle from start to finish.

If Danvers accepts a bid to ride on the Myopia field in this Saturday's match, local polo fans will see plenty of action, as Danvers recently beat Dedham. There will definitely be a match at 3:30 p. m., as there are enough good players for a worthwhile inter-club contest in the event Danvers is unavailable.

Dedham, encouraged by the 12-10 win over Pittsfield last weekend, will make every effort to sweep the series in the coming Sunday's return till in the Berkshires

Leo Boyle, clever riding left hander, adds strength to the Dedham lineup. Dedham loses its most colorful player, however, through the decision of William Cameron Forbes to hang up his mallet at the age of 69 after 45 seasons of polo in all parts of the world.

Harvard will start Jack Lewis, Bennet Forbes, captain; Gaylord and Benjamin Dillingham against the Tigers, with Cameron Burrage in reserve, at the Burnt Mills Polo Club, New Jersey. Saturday Yale opens the same day against P. M. C. Harvard drew a bye for June 14, with Army playing the winner of the Yale-P. M. C. match.

The final takes place June 17.

Yale, Army and Harvard are rated in that order, with the Crimson capable of retaining its crown if the team clicks as it did in the Myopia game, in which Big Tim Clark was too powerful and tricky to handle.

IS LOVE STRONGER THAN HATE?

Can the intense love of Joan Field for Harry Davis win against the hate of a vindictive suitor? Don't miss this thrilling, heart-warming story of romance.

Chapman Wins French Golf Final, 5 and 4

ST. GERMAIN, France, June 6 (AP)—Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Ct., won the international amateur golf championship of France today by defeating Jacques Leglise, former French champion, 5 and 4, in their 36-hole final.

Chapman's finer touch around the greens gave him a clear-cut victory over the husky red-faced former soccer star, who consistently out-drove the dark, slender American.

A gallery of 300 followed the afternoon round, after Chapman had taken a 4-up lead at the end of the morning 18 holes, on which he carded a two-under-par 71.

The Duke of Windsor played a round a few holes ahead of the finalists, but did not join the gallery.
